

Jury Exonerates Mrs. Hull In Fatal Crash; Is Not Convinced Milwaukee Driver Gave Signal

Rudolph Peterson, 45-year-old Milwaukee, Wis., driver involved in the accident in which Stanley W. Hull, Jr., aged eight months, was fatally injured last Monday afternoon, renewed $1,000 bail Friday evening for his appearance here August 27 for a preliminary hearing on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

That action followed a coroner's inquest at the Warner hospital at which a jury found no evidence to prove negligence on the part of Mrs. Carrie Hull, 66, Chambersburg street, grandmother of the accident victim and driver of the car in which the child was riding.

The same verdict had this to say about Peterson: "The jury feels that from the evidence submitted Rudolph Peterson made or attempted to make a left turn toward a driveway at the Lee Museum when such a turn could not be made safely in the face of oncoming traffic. We are not convinced that a visible warning signal was given by Mr. Peterson."

Urge Hazard Removal

The Milwaukee butcher, who with his wife was touring the Gettysburg battlefield enroute to Virginia to join their daughter at the time the accident occurred, posted his bail bond before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder who will hold the hearing later this month. At the same time Peterson posted $15.50 bond on a charge of attempting a left turn in the face of oncoming traffic.

The jury added a recommendation that the attention of the state Department of Highways be called to the need for correcting the "serious traffic hazard that exists at this hilltop intersection."

The jurors also wrote into their findings the fact that they had "been impressed with the sincerity of the witnesses and their efforts to testify to the truth as they saw it."

Conflicting Accounts

Mrs. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson and Eugene Shaw, Tyrone, Pa., driver of a car following Peterson, gave the principal testimony—in addition to that of the investigating officer, Private David K. James of the state police—and presented two conflicting pictures of the manner in which the accident occurred.

According to Mrs. Hull and Shaw, the local woman swerved to the right and passed in front of the Peterson car as the Wisconsin man attempted a left turn off the Lincoln highway into the Lee Museum driveway. The Petersons said they did not see Mrs. Hull's car until they heard the screech of brakes, the crash of her collision with a parked machine and then saw her car cross the highway and go into the ditch. They concluded that Mrs. Hull must have come by after their car was off the highway. The Peterson car was not touched in the series of crashes involving the Hull machine.

Dr. C. G. Crist, Adams county coroner, conducted the inquest in the directors' room in the hospital basement where Mrs. Hull, still a patient at the hospital, was brought in a wheel chair, her face still discolored from accident bruises. Members of the jury were Mrs. Ethel Crist, Mrs. G. E. Buehler, Mrs. C. T. Ziegler, Murray Miller, Paul V. Knox and Hugh C. McIlhenny, foreman.

First witness was Dr. Roy W. Gifford of the hospital's surgical staff. He said the Hull baby was in severe shock from a fractured skull and brain injury when admitted to the hospital and died about two hours after the accident. He showed X-

Countians Vow They Saw Huge Mountain Lion, Once With Cubs

Has anyone seen Adams county's mountain lion lately?

On at least three occasions in the last six months a big, gray-tan cat-like animal has been sighted by reputable citizens who believe they were looking at a female mountain lion—once with four cubs playing by her side.

Last February 12 when there was a light covering of snow on the ground, Russell Durboraw, Gettysburg R. 1, Cumberland township farmer and school director, saw the unusual animal within a few hundred feet of his farm buildings.

He had field glasses—but no gun—and studied the big cat as it stood out sharply against the light background.

In mid-April, Nevin E. Warner, 25, who operates the farm of his father-in-law, H. D. Crouse in upper Cumberland township along the Table

Rock road, was plowing for corn when he saw a big, tawny animal lying on a sunny slope above him with what appeared to be four cubs playing around her.

He drove the tractor to his farm buildings, got his deer rifle and invited his wife, Rita, to go along to help identify the "critter." As they approached, they found the "lion" at the same spot, sitting warily on her hunches but the cubs were not in sight.

Warner fired a shot at the animal which "did a flip" and Warner thought he had scored a hit although the animal disappeared into nearby woods. There was no blood at the spot, however, when he made an inspection.

In mid-June, discing in the same field, he saw what he believes was the same animal loping across a strip of open field less than a quarter mile from the spot he had seen her in April.

Mr. Durboraw has no doubts in his mind about the kind of animal he saw. "I'm sure it was a mountain lion," he asserts. "I saw one in a

Here And There

News Collected At Random

A splendid tribute was paid the memory of the late O. H. Benson, who died this week and was buried today, by the Boy Scouts of America in a special news release. It read in part as follows:

"Mr. Benson, originator and first director of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's 4-H clubs for farm boys and girls, was National Director of the Rural Scouting Service of the Boy Scouts of America from March, 1926, until his retirement in December, 1940. He played an important part in extending the advantages of Scouting to boys in rural America. He obtained the cooperation of all major agricultural organizations and the active assistance of 34 state colleges of agriculture. Through these, Scouting is working hand in hand with such major agricultural forces as the 4-H Clubs, County Agents, Granges, The Future Farmers, Farm Bureaus and other important rural groups.

"Mr. Benson collaborated in the revision of the Scouting program and its literature so that they might be suited to both city and farm boys to the advantage of both. One of the important pieces of literature developed was 'Scouting for Rural Boys,' a manual for leaders. He also made an important contribution to the Boy Scout Merit Badge library, helping to introduce and acting as advisor for 39 rural subjects.

"In 1944 the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America awarded to Mr. Benson, the Silver Buffalo 'for distinguished service to boyhood' with this citation: 'Oscar H. Benson. Educator, author, lecturer and social worker. Originator and for the first ten years National Director of the United States Department of Agriculture 4-H Clubs for farm boys and girls; an organizer of Junior Chautauqua Work and Junior Town programs; originator of the Junior Achievement Clubs for city boys and girls now active in many cities of the U.S.A. Served as teacher, school superintendent and principal of schools for fifteen years. Served as Scoutmaster, Merit Badge Counselor, member of two Local Council Executive Boards of the Boy Scouts of America. For fifteen years National Director of Rural Scouting Service of the Boy Scouts of America. Creative in his efforts to adapt Scouting to the specific needs of boys in rural towns and farm areas. Assisted in the preparation of Agricultural Merit Badge Pamphlets. Has devoted his lifetime to enlarging the opportunities of all boys and girls, promoting a better understanding between youth in the city and in rural communities."

4-H CLUBS WILL HOLD ROUNDUP ON AUGUST 28

The county's 4-H clubs — both home economic and agriculture — will hold their annual roundup Tuesday, August 28, at the Gettysburg high school auditorium. Miss Mary Jane Mickey, county home economics representative, and Fred Attinger, assistant county farm agent, announced today.

The afternoon and evening sessions will mark the first time that both the home economics and agricultural groups have held their annual round-ups together.

Parents of the youngsters in the clubs were particularly urged by Miss Mickey and Agent Attinger to attend the programs.

Most of the activities during the afternoon will be confined to the home economics group, with the agricultural groups joining in the round-up during the evening session.

Judge In Afternoon

The afternoon program will include demonstrations and judging of various articles made by the home economics club members during the summer months including such things as broomstick skirts, sleeveless dresses, dresses with sleeves, cookies, cakes, loaves of bread, flower arrangements and snack trays.

Most of the articles displayed during the afternoon will also be on display during the evening session. Members were asked to leave the garments they make with Miss Mickey following the round-up so that the dresses, skirts, etc., can be displayed at the South Mountain fair.

Approximately 300 youngsters from throughout the county are scheduled to take part in the program.

The committee in charge of the home economics part of the affair includes Betty Maring, Roy Weaver, June Breighner, Atlee Breighner, Mrs. John Schwartz and Thomas Murren.

PAGEANT WILL GIVE CENTURIES' FAIRFIELD STORY

Fairfield community history from the days of William Penn and the Indians will be highlighted in the prologue and 16 episodes of the pageant, "The Valley of Carroll's Delight," during that community's sesquicentennial celebration next month.

Early colonists, Indian massacres. Revolutionary history, the story of the naming of the town, first as Millerstown and then as Fairfield; Thaddeus Stevens and Civil War days will be presented by a cast of approximately 200.

Two scenes "Little Miss Apple" and "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe" will give a clue to the community's present prosperity.

To Be Given Three Evenings

The pageant will be given Thursday through Saturday, September 13, 14 and 15.

Mrs. Mara Stearns, who wrote the pageant, will direct assisted by Mrs. Madeleine Killalea, who was a narrator for the Adams county sesquicentennial pageant here a year ago.

Mrs. Stearns and Mrs. Killalea have worked together before. They presented a pageant by Mrs. Stearns at the South Mountain fairgrounds two years ago for the Girl Scouts. Then Mrs. Stearns wrote and Mrs. Killalea directed "This Other Eden" which was given here last year. The same pair also did a satire for the Woman's club of Gettysburg "Please, Ladies."

Cast Nearly Complete

Selection of the persons to be cast in the 200 roles in the pageant is all but completed and rehearsals are under way. Period costumes will add much to such scenes as the coming of the Scotch-Irish and Germans, Indian incidents and the founding of the town by Squire Miller 25 years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Talent is being drawn from the surrounding townships of Hamilton, Liberty and Freedom as well as from the town.

A look into the community's future will be suggested in the closing scene named "Light a Candle."

Follow The Leader

By LEIGHTON C. TAYLOR

Emerson said: "We are all as lazy as we dare be."

Disraeli observed: "Leaders are ordinary persons with extraordinary determination."

Recently a group of scientists made a study, among other things, of the common games played for recreation. A game, as every one knows, requires certain items of equipment and a set of rules, and the study referred to involved consideration of games based on one rule, two rules, three rules, and so on. The simplest game discussed and studied required no special equipment, and was governed by only one rule. Many of us played it when we were children, namely, FOLLOW THE LEADER. The leader of the participating players, it will be recalled, indulges in various antics, and each follower imitates him to the best of his ability.

Popular Youth Game

Now it seems strange that a game so simple should have a place in any form of society, even in a juvenile group; but, believe it or not, the study disclosed that, among small children, FOLLOW THE LEADER was the most popular and best liked of all games. Recreational authorities say that children will play the game for hours while the leader virtually exhausts his ingenuity in thinking of and executing new antics. The players who follow laugh with glee as they try to render exact imitations of the gestures produced by the leader. For most children the act of following provides more actual enjoyment than that of leading.

Leaving the children and coming to adults, it is my conviction that the game, FOLLOW THE LEADER, is just as popular among the latter as the former. In fact, what I have written about children at play, with some changes in terminology, might easily be regarded as providing a picture of adult society. This prediction for following the leader pre-

FARMERS MEET SEPTEMBER 11TH AT COURT HOUSE

Plans were formulated Friday afternoon at a meeting of the County Agricultural Mobilization committee at the PMA office on York street for a county wide meeting of farmers September 11 at the court house here.

The session is to be held to permit farmers and their families to outline what they think is good and what should be changed in the activities of the various federal farm agencies operating in the county.

Preceding the September 11 session a meeting will be held Friday, August 24, at the Adams Electric Cooperative office on North Stratton street of the heads of all the farm agencies with representatives of all farm organizations and farm connected organizations in the county.

Outline Agency Work

That session will call in representatives of the county fruit growers group, the poultry growers organization, 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America heads, and representatives of such groups as the women's clubs of the county and service clubs.

Purpose of the meeting of representatives Friday will be to outline the work of the various federal agencies and seek comments from the representatives and the interest of their organizations in urging their farmer members to attend the general meeting open to the public on September 11.

Martin T. Walter, chairman of the county agricultural mobilization committee, said the group hopes to hear the opinions of all persons in the county on just how the federal agencies are doing their work of helping the family farm.

Seek Future Program

Through the meetings the committee hopes to be able to determine what activities are considered best and which should be changed.

Similar meetings are being held throughout the country, and reports are scheduled to be sent from each county to the U. S. Department of Agriculture on the findings of each of the meetings. Those reports will be correlated and the policies of the agencies changed accordingly.

Further details of the plans for the meeting are to be outlined Monday at 12:30 o'clock over WGOT by Richard C. Lighter, secretary of the county agricultural mobilization committee.

Peace or Vigorous War

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), one of eight Republicans joining in a statement condemning MacArthur's ouster, said in an interview he has no doubt that the MacArthur program will be called into play immediately if it is determined that the Chinese Reds won't agree to a truce.

"I am certainly supporting General (Matthew B.) Ridgway's position that the fighting cannot be halted on the basis of the 38th parallel as the dividing line between North and South Korea," Smith said.

Without direct reference to MacArthur's proposals, Senator Russell (D-Ga.) told reporters if there is no peace, the U.N.'s answer will be "vigorous" warfare against the Red (Please Turn to Page 3)

Reds And Allies Confer In Informal, Friendly Meeting Over Korean "Buffer Zone"

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 18 (AP)—Allies and Reds got down to brass tacks today as the four-man armistice subcommittee met on the buffer zone issue for the second straight time in an atmosphere of friendly informality.

The talks are being held strictly off-the-record and no official report of progress was made.

But a pooled dispatch from Kaesong said the four generals—two American, one North Korean and one Chinese—were seen huddled over a map spread out on a conference table. They pointed to it as they talked. And they seemed to be speaking informally, and not from prepared statements.

Meet This Evening

After a lengthy session in hot and sweltering Kaesong they adjourned. They will meet again at 11 a.m. tomorrow (8 p.m. Saturday, EST). That indicated the four trouble-shooters did not reach a final solution today on where the cease-fire buffer zone should be placed.

Once more the sound of laughter coming from the conference room spurred hope of progress.

Peiping radio yesterday dropped a hint of progress in a broadcast just before the negotiators met. The Red radio, monitored in Tokyo, said the subcommittee Thursday "took the first step toward finding a solution to the issue deadlocking the truce talks."

What that step was, Peiping didn't say.

The subcommittee began today's session at 11 a.m. Before they met, liaison officers of the two sides took over the conference room and continued their debate on the neutrality of Kaesong. The liaison groups will meet again tomorrow. Allied members refused to discuss what happened today.

The subcommittee again met around one of the smaller tables in the conference room. Observed from outside, the envoys appeared comfortable and relaxed as they leaned back in arm chairs.

They met for one hour and 40 minutes before adjourning for lunch. The afternoon session lasted one hour and 40 minutes.

The Communist team rode to lunch in a captured American jeep still bearing the marking "KMAG" painted on the bumper—"Korean Military Advisory Group."

Both sides again limited the number of newsmen at the conference. The United Nations had three correspondents at Kaesong, the Reds four.

Gives Traditional Sermon Sunday

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, will be the guest preacher delivering a special sermon at the 11 o'clock service in Market Square Presbyterian church, Harrisburg, Sunday morning. Dr. Hanson, one of the foremost Lutheran preachers of the East, was the pastor of Messiah Lutheran church for many years and during that time took a prominent part in the civic affairs of Harrisburg. He has preached the third Sunday of August at Market Square for over 10 years. He is a prominent educator and holds important offices in the United Lutheran Church of America.

MAY YET TURN TO M'ARTHUR PLAN IN KOREA

By JACK BELL

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—Three Senators said today if Kaesong truce talks fail the United Nations may strike the Red Chinese in Korea with the sort of warfare proposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Senator Taft, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican Policy committee, told reporters he thinks the U.N. "will have to adopt the MacArthur program if the truce talks fail."

MacArthur, ousted as Pacific commander by President Truman, called for the bombing of Manchurian Communist bases, a naval and economic blockade of China and use of Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa.

Peace or Vigorous War

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), one of eight Republicans joining in a statement condemning MacArthur's ouster, said in an interview he has no doubt that the MacArthur program will be called into play immediately if it is determined that the Chinese Reds won't agree to a truce.

It was announced this morning that Sunday's program of games will start at 1:30 o'clock.

The defending champions, Prince AA of York, and Union Springs of New Kensington, got off to good starts in the Pennsylvania Amateur Softball association tournament here Friday evening by scoring victories before approximately 500 fans.

Bill Rawlinson, rated as one of the best pitchers performing in the tournament, turned in a no-run no-hit performance in the opening game as the Prince outfit blanked the Gettysburg host team 6-0. He whiffed nine batters and walked but one.

Clarence Dorn and George Fair divided the hurling for Gettysburg and yielded but six hits.

Prince scored twice in the first that way until the seventh when frame on a pair of walks to Dearth and King which were followed by three infield outs. Abe Hankey tossing out the trio at first.

A pair of hits, walk and an error gave Prince two more runs in the third. The final Prince tallies came in the fifth when Sohnleitner walked and Lehman lined a terrific drive over Gorman's head in left field for a homerun.

Three Reach Base

Gettysburg got but three men on base, two via error and the other by a walk. Hankey walked in the second. In the sixth Max Sherman was off to a bad throw by Dearthoff on a difficult chance. In the seventh Lachik gained base on Scott's bobble. Only Sherman got as far as second base, the result of a clean steal.

In the second game of the evening Union Springs joined the Darling Valve team of Williamsport 6-4.

A bit of solid hitting, including three homeruns, featured the opening frames with the ultimate victors taking a 4-3 lead at the end of the second inning. The score remained

SAYS COMPLETE HOLOHAN STORY IS YET UNTOLD

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—A former army sergeant accused of killing Maj. William V. Holohan in Italy seven years ago insists he will be proved innocent when the "complete, true story" is given out by authorities.

And an Italian senator who led wartime Communist partisans in northern Italy came to the defense yesterday of another American accused of a major role in the killing.

The Defense Department in a statement Wednesday charged that former Lt. Aldo (Ike) Icardi of Preckness, N. J., and former Sergeant Carl G. LoDolce with the help of two Italians, killed Holohan, their leader on a secret OSS mission behind enemy lines. The department said LoDolce had made a written confession.

"It Is Incomplete" LoDolce acknowledged yesterday in his home town of Rochester, N. Y., that the confession was in his own handwriting but he said: "I refute and repudiate the confession as it appeared in the press. It is incomplete."

Pressed by newsmen to explain in what way the story was incomplete, LoDolce answered: "That would have to come from the War Department or the OSS."

Information Director Clayton Fritchey of the Defense Department said here later the story was complete. He added that while the department summary naturally had not given all the details which he said were contained in a mound of documents on the case, all the essential facts were there. Icardi also has denied the charges, terming them "fantastic."

Can't Be Tried Here At Cuneo, Italy, meanwhile, Senator Vincenzo Moscatelli described Icardi as a "valiant soldier who helped greatly in the partisan struggle against the Germans."

Moscatelli said Icardi's version of his major's disappearance "was supported by information which the S.I.M. (Military Intelligence Service) supplied us that the Germans had made an attack on the American mission."

Former Sgt. Arthur P. Claramicoli, who once served with Holohan and the accused men, told reporters at Milford, Mass., yesterday he didn't believe the Defense Department report. Because of a quirk in the law, neither of the accused men can be brought to trial in this country. They might be compelled to face an Italian court, but it is doubtful whether they will be extradited for this purpose.

JETS ENGAGE IN 2 BATTLES

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Aug. 18 (AP)—U.S. and Red jets fought two thundering battles over northwest Korea today in the first large-scale air action in more than a month.

U.S. Fifth Air Force said one Red fighter was damaged in the first clash and one was "probably destroyed" in the second.

The air force said all the American F-86 Sabre jets in both battles returned safely to their bases.

Twenty-eight Sabres tangled with 24 Russian type MIG-15s between 15,000 and 35,000 feet in the second fight.

5-Minute Battle Lt. Charles F. Loyd, Marion, Ky., was credited with the probable.

In the earlier fight, 29 Sabres collided with 30 Red jets.

The battle, 5,000 feet over Sonchon, lasted five minutes. The MIGs broke off the fight and flew north. It was the first large scale jet air battle since July 11.

The Sabre jets, of the fourth fighter interceptor wing, were flying top cover for a flight of 80-Shooting Star jets attacking military targets when they intercepted the MIGs.

Lt. Buford A. Hammond of Mid-diesboro, Ky., was credited with damaging the Russian-type plane.

United Nations and Communist infantry fought hand-to-hand battles at both ends of the Korean battle line yesterday.

Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—Giant-sized wallpops from pint-sized ball players helped put Potter-McKean and Neville into the championship round of the state title league tournament last night.

The teams, manned by hard-playing eight to 12-year-old youngsters, play for the state title tonight.

Three home runs—one a grand slammer by Terry Shields—boosted Potter-McKean to an 11-9 victory over Monongahela. Bert Tucker, starting pitcher, and Joe Marzo hit the other round trippers.

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—The United States can boost its crude oil output to 8,000,000 barrels a day by 1955 — 1,200,000 barrels above present output, the government has estimated. The petroleum administration yesterday on indications that about 43,400 new wells will be completed annually during the next five years.

Albuquerque, N. M., annexed more territory than any other city in the nation in 1950.

LOWER AGE FOR CHILDREN TO START SCHOOL

Harrisburg, Aug. 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania children under five years and seven months may enter first grade under a new state law if tests show they have a mental age of six.

The new law, signed last night by Gov. John S. Fine, would require such children to undergo intelligence tests by school psychologists.

The new law also allows children reaching five years and seven months to enter school at mid-semester for the first time.

The governor also signed more than a score of other new laws and vetoed a bill which would have extended transportation aid by the state to include joint school boards.

Fine said he vetoed the measure because it would have required an expenditure of at least $400,000 in excess of funds already earmarked for education.

Permit county commissioners to designate ill or disabled policemen with over 20 years' service as building guards.

RYE HOLDS AND IMPROVES SOILS

A two-inch fall of rain is not uncommon. But if this much water should come down in one mammoth splash it would exert power sufficient to lift a 7-inch layer of soil three feet into the air. Unseen and often unrealized, this may occur in miniature or slow-motion when normal rains, especially those in late fall and winter, fall on bare garden, orchard and cropped farm land. It is to prevent this potential bankrupting menace of escaping soils that all gardeners, orchardists and farmers should consider winter rye as a cover crop.

But the merits of rye do not by any means end with the coat it furnishes to bare soils over winter. When grown for this vital purpose rye may be turned under the following spring to deepen shallow soils and lighten heavy loams, thereby rendering such soils more capable of retaining falling water and thus reducing costly run-offs. Too, more green manure in the soil enables crops to withstand droughts with less loss of vigor and to increase yields and improve crop quality. Few other investments of labor and materials pay a greater cycle of increasing rewards than the growing of rye as a winter cover and green manure crop.

Rye may be seeded for these dual roles from mid-August until early November. Where rye as both cover and green manure is most needed on thin soils, it should be seeded in August, certainly not later than the last 10 days of the month. But of course, if the soil is still occupied by an unharvested crop, such as late vegetables, corn or other cereal, seeding may be wisely done as late as already suggested but as soon as the occupying crop is harvested. In other words, sow cover rye as soon after the middle of August as possible.

Between rows of bramble fruits—raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and boysenberries—rye may be seeded early to protect the soil and to turn under in the spring to increase the vital supply of organic matter these fruits demand.

On garden areas where unusually early vegetables will be started, such as extra early peas, beets, asparagus, celery and others, rye may be seeded for its winter cover merits and whatever green manure it will furnish by early March plowing time. The cover worth alone will represent big dividends.

Rate of seeding ranges from four to eight pecks per acre. Broadcast is preferred to drilling on sloping land unless drilling is done on contour to avoid surface washing until the plants are high enough to hold the soil. Covering one-half inch deep

NATIONAL AIR RACES OPEN IN DETROIT TODAY

Detroit, Aug. 18 (AP)—The "greatest demonstration of air power in the history of the world" gets under way here today with the opening of the National Air Races.

The "greatest demonstration" tag was given the 1951 races by an air force spokesman, and pre-racing tests certainly pointed up the fact that they likely will be the fastest, by far.

Two records were broken unofficially in yesterday's warmups for today's and tomorrow's events.

Col. Fred J. Ascani of Rockford, Ill., whipped his P-86E Sabre jet fighter around the 100-kilometer Thompson trophy race course at an unofficial 635.414 miles per hour, compared to a world record of 605.230 for a similar closed course. The world record is held by a British Sapphire and was set in 1948.

Sets Midget Record

John Paul Jones of Van Nuys, Calif., cracked the continental trophy race record with an unofficial speed of 199.788 miles an hour in pacing 18 qualifiers for the four-heat event for midget planes.

The continental is restricted to planes with a piston displacement of not more than 190 cubic inches. The official record for a single lap is 195.122 mph and was set last year by Jones. A speed of 187.785 won the 1950 15-lap race here.

The continental is the only civilian, propeller-driven race slated.

Eight jets—three bombers, three fighter-bombers and two fighters—were expected to smash all Bendix trophy records today as they roar in from Edwards Air Base at Murco, Calif. The trip is expected to require no more than three hours and 15 minutes. The racers are due here around 2 p.m. EST.

FEARS ANOTHER PEARL HARBOR Philadelphia, Aug. 18 (AP)—The United States must be careful that Russia and Communist China do not pull a "Pearl Harbor" during Japanese Peace Treaty discussions in San Francisco next month, Harold E. Stassen has warned. The Japanese used peace discussions in Washington to "cover" their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, the University of Pennsylvania president recalled yesterday. Recently returned from a flying trip to Europe, Stassen said he found a prevalent opinion that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower was doing a "superb job" in establishing the basis of a Western European army. As national chairman of the Crusade for Freedom, the primary purpose of Stassen's European trip was to launch freedom messages carried by balloons into Czechoslovakia. The university president found the peoples of Western Europe less afraid of Russia than they were a year ago and attributed their attitude to Eisenhower's presence, better spirit, "more confidence in themselves" and the "continued rumblings of dissent behind the iron curtain." Harrisburg, Aug. 18 (AP)—A 35-year old woman was charged today with embezzling more than $10,000 from the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Employees Credit Union. Alderman Joseph Demma ordered Mrs. Arwilda Jane Malesich, of nearby Rutherford Heights, a payroll supervisor at the bureau, held in the Dauphin county jail in default of $5,000 bail. No date was set for a hearing.

BROWNS WALLOP ALL-STARS 33-0 BEFORE 92,180

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP) — Word was out that old age was seeping into the marrow of the Cleveland Browns and the 1951 National Football league season would see them knocked from the pinnacle.

All that has been revised today. The Browns are still the team to beat. They're a long way from being turned out to pasture.

With the gusto and vigor of college kids, the amazing Browns sandbagged the collegiate All-Stars 33-0 last night to open the football season officially before 92,180 fans in Soldier Field.

Worst Beating Ever
The victory last night, accomplished with many of the same players who have been with the Browns since they were organized six years ago, capped a streak of spectacular championship sweeps.

Such "old men" as Otto Graham, Marion Motley, Mac Speedie, Dante Lavelli, Lou Groza, Lou Rymkus, Bill Willis and Lin Houston — all pressing 30 or more — gave the collegians the second worst beating ever absorbed in the 18-year history of the series.

Graham completed 18 of 31 passes for 269 yards and two touchdowns — 14 yards to Lavelli to cap a 42-yard surge in four plays; and eight yards to Emerson Cole to end a 32-yard push in three plays.

21 Points in Last Half
Dub Jones scampered 105 yards in 12 carries, scoring on six and three yard stabs to climax touchdown drives of 56 and 62 yards.

Motley, the 31-year-old fullback, crashed 26 yards in six tries. Lavelli snared seven passes for 144 yards and Speedie hooked nine for 107.

While emptying their bench of 39 men, the Browns gained 425 total yards rushing and passing to the All-Stars' 126, and scored in every quarter. They pushed over 21 points in the last half.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Aug. 17 (AP) — A decided coolness has arisen between Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the writers who record the daily operations of the National league leaders.

The spat, which does not promise to subside in the near future, was churned up recently when the little Brooks pilot chose to deny he had made a crack about one of his young pitchers, Erv Palica, which the reporters still say he made—no once, but twice.

The reader may recall that Dressen was reported to have snarled that Palica, who had been belted around in a game just concluded, was lacking in intestinal stamina and didn't belong in the big leagues. It was such a harsh and unusual statement for a manager to make about one of his men, the reporters say now, that they felt impelled to tell their readers about it.

"Wanted It Printed"

"Charlie seemed to want it printed," they agree. "Otherwise, why did he say it the second time when he came upstairs to the press room?"

There was no immediate denial of the statement from Dressen, even though the report that he had employed such pointed language about one of his men received national circulation and created considerable comment among fans and players alike.

But then, weeks later, the Brooklyn press corps was shaken to its wedgies to hear that a radio sports-caster had informed his listeners that there was nothing to the story at all, that Dressen hadn't said any such thing.

They swarmed on Chuck, and he said that was right, that he certainly didn't recall having blasted Palica to the extent he had been quoted. That's what he still says, and about the most charitable thing the boys are saying about the little guy these days is that maybe he actually did forget he had, under stress of emotion.

But that is not the full extent of the unfortunate incident. It has caused the fellows who search the dressing rooms for news after each game to take a dim view of a sports-caster who questioned the accuracy of their reporting.

One of the deans of the local press boxes gave the sportscasters a hard going over in print the other day. He said, in effect, that the boys at the microphones should attend strictly to the business of describing the games. Not mix into any arguments and not editorialize, since they were not entirely free agents.

Gettysburg Team In Softball Tourney

Above are members of the Gettysburg host team competing in the Pennsylvania Amateur Softball Association tournament being held this week-end on the Recreation park field. The local outfit dropped its opening game Friday evening 6-0 in a no-hit game to Prince AA, York, defending champions. This afternoon at 1 o'clock Gettysburg was to meet the Darling Valve team of Williamsport, losers in the second game Friday night.

The tournament resumed this morning at 9 o'clock with Meadville IOC meeting the Lancaster IACC.

Play This Afternoon
As loser of the first game, Gettysburg's host team now meets Darling Valve this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Games will be played throughout the day with the opponents being determined largely by previous game results. After completion of previous games, each succeeding game starts approximately 12 minutes later. Championship games are carded for Sunday afternoon.

Local fans commented favorably on the exhibitions shown in the opening tilts. Most were particularly impressed by the fast ball pitching of the hurling stars which brought forth the opinion that if the local team could match the hurling they undoubtedly would be in as good a spot as any for championship honors.

GOLF TOURNEY IS UNDERWAY

What looms as the best golf tournament in the history of the Gettysburg Country club is in progress and will continue until August 26.

Henry T. Bream, club golf chairman, emphasized today the importance of completing the qualifying rounds before August 26 in order that the four championship flights may be completed.

Qualifying rounds opened on August 10. Each contestant is required to twice play 18 consecutive holes per day in qualifying play.

Four championship flights of 16 players each will be selected and winners of all flights will be given the identical prizes which Chairman Bream states will be very worthwhile. A prize will also be given to the low medalist in the qualifying rounds.

On Tuesday evening, August 28, a stag party and "calcutta pool" will be held which will be conducted the same as in previous years.

It was announced today that the local club golfers will meet the Waynesboro Country club linksmen on the latter's course Sunday, August 26.

Old Rivals Again Meet In Title Game

Harrisburg, Aug. 18 (AP) — History of a year ago was repeated today as Harrisburg and DuBois clashed in the Veterans of Foreign Wars "Teener" Baseball League state championship.

Both teams played in the title contest last year.

Yesterday DuBois squeezed out a 1-0 win over Milfill county's nine to win the semi-final. The victory came after DuBois picked up an unexpected run in the bottom of the sixth on a single and the first hit of the game against Milfill county. It was enough to win.

Harrisburg rallied for four runs in the seventh and last inning to defeat Uniontown 6-2.

The two losers of yesterday's games meet to determine the third-place title winner.

Shaw testified next. He said he had been following the Peterson car east on the Lincoln highway when Peterson stopped without a warning signal in the right lane of the highway opposite the Lee Museum. "I saw the Hull car coming and wondered why Peterson should try to turn into the museum driveway," Shaw stated. He said Peterson stopped with his car astride the white center line while Mrs. Hull swerved right to get by, then side-swiped the parked machine of Thomas Edwin Pack, Glenview, Ill., which stood along the north side of the road about 60 feet west of where Peterson had stopped. After the sideswipe, he said, the Hull machine swerved left across the highway, into a ditch, striking some trees.

Gave No Warning

Shaw said Peterson gave no signal of his intention to turn and there were no blinking lights on the Peterson machine to show the driver's intentions. Shaw estimated the speed of the Hull car at 30 to 35 miles an hour.

The Tyrone man also expressed the opinion that Mrs. Hull had her car under control as she attempted to get by the Peterson machine.

Warned that her testimony might be used against her husband, Mrs. Peterson testified voluntarily that she didn't see the Hull car until it had passed back of their machine and gone into the ditch. "I know the road was clear when we turned across. Whatever the other man saw, I don't know." She said their car did not stop on the highway but that they slowed to make the turn.

Mrs. Hull next gave her account of the tragedy. She said the baby was lying on the front seat beside her and that his two-year-old sister, Hannah, was in the back seat. "As I came up the hill," she said, "my first sight of that car was that it was turning in front of me. I turned right and saw the parked car ahead. Hitting that car threw me to the left and that's the last I remember. I believe I had control of the car and as I swerved to the right I thought: 'I won't hit him' but unfortunately that other car was standing there."

Peterson, who said he wished to testify although he was told by Dr. Crist of his right to refuse, said this was his first accident in 28 years of driving. He stated there was no car close behind him as to interfere with his plan to make a left turn and that he was driving slowly as he turned into the driveway and parked with the rear of his car three feet off the edge of the road. "Mrs. Hull must have gone back of me. I saw no one coming toward me and I didn't know I was involved in an accident." He suggested the Hull car must have been in the "blind spot."

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THIS FRIENDLY EARTH

God's life is written, chapter by chapter, in nature. No book on theology ever written is so explanatory, so simple, so open and honest. There is an everlastingness about every created thing, whether tree, animal, or flower. It is true that there is constant death in nature, but this death is always replaced with something else. Life goes on.

There is an intimacy about the life in nature that can be gained from no other place. This earth is a friendly place. Walk over its mossy paths in the forest, listen to the song of the wind as it brushes through and touches, ever so gently, every needle and leaf of pine and maple. And, oh what fragrance! Richard Jeffries threw himself upon the carpet of this earth, looked into the blue sky, and there composed that beautiful book of his, "The Story of My Heart."

I am sure every lover of nature, and all its works, continually feels that there is something of himself woven and melted into the good earth over which his footsteps fall, and from whose bosom rises and falls the breath of beauty. How significant that dedication in "The Roadmender" by Michael Fairless: "To My Mother, and to Earth, My Mother, Whom I Love."

No tonic ever suggested by a physician can compare with the tonic of the wild, and all that it has to offer to that one who has a receptive mind and heart, and an appreciative spirit. Every time I pluck from the earth the commonest of flowers I feel I have taken into my hands, an understanding friend.

W. H. Hudson, the naturalist, who spent his early life in the Argentine, would take his pony and ride for miles into the pampas, gathering knowledge that years later he put into masterful prose, and into books that will always live, such as "Green Mansions," "The Purple Land," and "Far Away and Long Ago."

This friendly earth is always sympathetic. It helps us to understand ourselves better, as well as other people. Its poetry and prose intermingles. If we are of it we are in tune with the Infinite!

TO THE YOUNG

We're told we've failed by leaving you

So much to learn, so much to do
And yet our fathers thought that they
Had failed us in the self-same way.

They did their best for liberty,
Fought for a peace that couldn't be;
They tried to solve the problems all,
That none of them on us should fall.

Yet when a father leaves his son
With not one task that must be done,
No goal to reach, no loss to fear,
He robs him of his own career.

Youth, when the last of us has gone
And with our tasks you carry on,
Remember, for the right we stood,
In freedom's cause did all we could.

Another dangerous calling is shouting insults to a traffic cop.

It's natural to read special meaning into everything that goes wrong with the car, and to tie one ailment to another, but usually this doesn't pay.

With a car experience demonstrates that things often "just happen." When the car pulled to the left one owner noticed that the motor temperature gauge wasn't working, and foolishly tried to pin a single cause to the two of them. Another owner noticed that the car lacked power, and also found that there was a dragging brake. Surely these were closely related. Naturally, he was disappointed to find that even after the brakes were fixed the motor still was sluggish. He learned later that the fuel pump had lost its zip at about the same time the brakes started dragging.

Sometimes three or more things will go wrong at about the same time, and have no connection with each other. It all adds to the mystery of car care. Whatever else can be said for the automobile it is never dull.

Why They Jump Out

Add to your list of reasons why gears slip out of mesh when the car is going downhill the possibility of end play in the transmission shaft. This, in turn, is due to wear. The gears then work themselves out of mesh when the engine is braking the car on the descent and when there is reversed thrust on the gears.

So if there is no excessive looseness of the drive line, no overinflation of the rear tires, no looseness of motor mounts, there's a change that the trouble is with excessive end play in the transmission mainshaft itself.

Overheating often is due to a corroded water distribution tube in the engine block. This is the tube which directs water to the valve seats for better cooling. Not all engines have such a tube, however, which is one reason the tube is likely to be overlooked where it is a part of the cooling system.

Many motorists think that if no cracks show up on the outside of the tires there is no harm in running underinflated. The real damage from low pressure, however, is found in the body of the tire where there is separation of the plies.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"These days the smart mechanic has to study his customer as well as the car, for if the owner has done some tinkering he may be reluctant to admit it. This may have complicated the situation, introducing some new angles that will also stand correction. Often we also have to undo some mistake made by another mechanic who has taken a crack at the car."

"Most of the owner mistakes have to do with tampering with the carburetor, the ignition timing, or the automatic choke. Control and adjustment for these is easy to reach and the owner usually figures that if he makes a mistake he can always go back to where he started. Too often this turns out to be wishful thinking. Then he goes limping to the repair shop. I've learned from experience to ask the owner to tell me frankly what he's done to the engine itself. That helps me get back to the original problem."

Cooling Time Again

In hot weather it is surprising what a big difference the little things make. An engine that is running on the danger side can often be kept from going into a real stew merely by such a detail as keeping your foot off the clutch pedal. Any riding of the pedal tends to slip the clutch, and that is a short cut to added overheating. Those sudden stops are also on the forbidden list because they force water to surge forward and out the overflow. Often heating is caused by an over-tight fan belt that cramps the fan bearing. If heating seems to be chronic by all means use compressed air to blow bugs, leaves and other litter from between the radiator fins. By not shutting off the hot water heater valve you will also have the added advantage of increased cooling area without any appreciable increased heat in the driving compartment.

After a long, hard ride with the car it is always well to allow the engine to idle a few minutes before switching it off. Unless this is done there's a good chance that coolant will be lost out the overflow and that there will be increased difficulty re-starting the engine. Here's why:

Sudden stopping of the engine permits hot spots in the cooling system to overheat the coolant, causing after-bill which forces water out the overflow. This heating also causes vapor lock in the fueling system which, in turn, makes for harder re-starting.

The brief period of idling will help the engine normalize its heat.

For the Scrapbook

Maybe you never plan to do a ring job or kiltz where one is in process, but it is well to know that there must be sufficient gap at the ring joints. There's a definite rule for this. The gap should be at least .010" for 3" rings, .014" for 3½" rings and .015" for 4" rings. What if cylinders have been bored to take oversize pistons? The gap here can be ½ inch.

15 state motor policemen from Harrisburg, dressed in plain clothes, struck simultaneously at five points in Gettysburg at 1:45 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

There's no appreciable effect on compression because of these gaps. This is largely because the gaps are staggered.

Getting Wise To Pistons

It is interesting to note what can be done these days with pistons which have seen hard service. Three different methods are used for resizing pistons, for instance. One is by means of knurling, another by shot peening. Still another is expanding while heated. Some oddities have been discovered in piston bearings, too. The lands which are the portions between the ring grooves may "grow," for example. When this happens portions of the lands may break off. Grooves are subject to considerable wear, but are easily recut and fitted with spacers when installing new rings.

Before the chassis is undercoated it is well to give the mounting bolts a good tightening. It is also a good idea to coat the inside of the bumpers.

Crankcase fumes will be lessened if the oil is changed. Diluent not only increases the blow by of combustion gases past the piston rings but adds fumes by going into vapor.

"Body roll" is the action of the car when it goes into a curve. Here the outer springs compress and the inner ones expand. This has to be checked by action of the shock absorbers, so keep them in prime shape.

What's Your Trouble?

Q. Whenever I give my car a burst of speed the engine seems to jerk. I have checked the spark plugs. Breaker points are reasonably new.

—H. N. V.

A. Some hint here of valve sticking. Try one of the additives in with the motor oil.

Q. I improved the instrument and tail lights on my car by tightening the connections under the instrument panel, but now the headlights are out.—J. G. H.

A. These queer automobiles! Evidently you tightened so much you have squeezed one of the headlight circuit wires from the switch connector post.

Q. In storing a car for several months do you recommend taking out the spark plugs?—Wm. L.

A. Only to make it easier to squirt a little oil into the cylinder every so often. Insert corks in place of the plugs. When these are removed the engine can be easily cranked by turning a jacked up rear wheel in gear.

Q. My gas consumption has gone down since a motor overhaul, although oil mileage is greatly improved. Any reason for this?

—R. R. F.

A. Often there is stiffness of the motor after a ring job. This will vary with the type of ring used and the methods of the service man. To overcome such stiffness it is necessary to use a richer mixture. When this motor limbers up you can go back to the normal mixture, and gas mileage will improve.

Q. We have traced an annoying noise in the car to the speedometer. A check, however, shows that there is no kink in the flexible shaft nor any sharp bends. The cable is properly seated in the speedometer head. But the noise continues.—J. B. C.

A. Probably the cable is a little too long for this model.

Q. Does increase in headlight brilliancy when the engine is accelerated always indicate that the battery is weak?—H. L. M.

A. No, there are some 30 other explanations. One that seldom is considered is possibility of a poor ground connection for the battery.

Q. For some odd reason the engine of my car behaves as if the mixture is too rich at high speeds. The engine seems to overload. There are no mechanical reasons for this higher speed action, as I have checked all valves, valve spring tension, ignition, cooling and everything else. Have you any idea what might cause this?—G. McN.

A. If it were my car I would check the fuel pump's pressure. I think you will find that the pressure is much too high. A high carburetor float level will also do this, but the pump is the preferred explanation.

NEW POLICY ON WAGE RISES IS ADOPTED BY U. S.

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—The government has adopted, temporarily at least, a general policy of allowing wages to rise and fall with living costs.

In approving the policy yesterday, Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said it was "in line with the overall stabilization objective of keeping the American economy in balance."

However, Johnston said the whole stabilization program would have to be reviewed next spring. He okayed the new policy, proposed by the wage stabilization board, until March 1, 1952.

To Offset Costs

In the meantime, the board will approve wage increases granted by employers to offset the rise in living costs. Roughly, they have risen 11 per cent since January, 1950, and about two per cent since the wage-price freeze of last January 25.

The new policy supplements but does not change a separate regulation under which employers may grant increases of 10 per cent over January, 1950, levels without coming to the board for approval.

The board promptly applied the new policy to a series of northern cotton-rayon textile mill cases. It granted a six and one-half per cent boost, amounting to eight and one-half cents an hour to 90,000 CIO-textile workers, effective last March.

Three Ways Provided

Under the cost of living policy, workers may get a pay boost in three ways:

1. If they were working under a contract with an escalator clause in effect before the January 25 wage freeze.

2. If the employer and union want to gear their pay rates in the future to such an index, the board will approve the contract provisions.

3. If employers and unions want to make long-term contracts without such a binding clause, they may open their agreements every six months, take a look at what has happened to

4,000 MEN AT SUMMER CAMP

Indiantown Gap, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania National Guardsmen from all parts of the commonwealth converged here today by rail and motor convoy for a two-week encampment.

As the trains and motorcades rolled in at staggered intervals, the troops were issued equipment and quickly assigned training quarters.

The non-divisional guard troops will undergo strenuous training program in preparation for any emergency lying ahead.

The encampment, expected to number some 4,000 men, will be the smallest since the resumption of PNG summer field training in 1946. Nearly three-fourths of Pennsylvania's guardsmen are now in federal service.

Under General Weber

The non-divisional units will train simultaneously with 13,000 troops of the Fifth Infantry Division now undergoing training on this huge military reservation. The Keystone troops however will have their own barracks area and receive separate instruction.

The four major commands of the field forces of the PNG will train under the command of Maj. Gen. Frank A. Weber, state adjutant general.

Before beginning intensive training Monday, the troops will line up tomorrow for an informal inspection

The training period this year will include field problems, small arms and artillery firing practice and instruction in latest army equipment.

100 YOUNGSTERS AT PLAYGROUND FOR LAST DAY

Approximately 100 boys and girls participated in the Playground Party Day activities Thursday afternoon as a special closing event of the Littlestown recreational program. The group enjoyed games such as football, softball, kickball and others. The playground instructors, Mrs. Kay Crouse Sentez and Clayton L. Evans, both members of the faculty of the Littlestown Junior-Senior high school, were in charge and they served refreshments to the children and their mothers. Refreshments consisted of do-nuts, contributed by the Capitol Bakeries, and orangeade, donated by the Littlestown Lions club.

The program was carried on every weekday for the last ten weeks, and the many enthusiastic children of the community who were daily playground patrons learned many worthwhile leisure time activities. The morning sessions were from 9:30 to 11:30 o'clock and a varied program was held for the boys and girls up to ten years of age. These younger boys and girls learned to make paper plate wall pictures, yarn dolls, paper bag masks, doll cradles out of ice cream or oatmeal boxes, garlands of crepe paper, cut outs and pictures from old catalogues. Both quiet and active mass games, as well as handwork, comprised the interesting morning schedule with Mrs. Sentez in charge.

Mr. Evans was in charge at the afternoon periods, conducted from 1:30 to 4 p.m., for boys and girls of age ten years and over. Extensive work was done in plaster par. Many molds were furnished by the recreational committee and also some molds were loaned by the children in attendance. The figures made included animals, automobiles, other vehicles, people and scenes. The older group also played active and quiet games, as well as making many objects from leather or wood. Change purses, belts, and other things were made from leather contributed by the Windsor Shoe company, Inc. Wooden napkin holders were assembled, and articles such as bracelets and belts were made from a woolen fabric donated by the Carroll Shoe company, Inc. Story sessions added variety to the afternoon sessions.

Special events included in the program at weekly intervals were "Everything on Wheels Day," hobby show, doll exhibit, bubble blowing contest and the closing party. A midget softball team was organized by Mr. Evans, and the midgets played several evening games.

The instructors wish to extend their thanks to the following for making the summer program a success: Capitol Bakers, the Littlestown Lions club, the Carroll Shoe company, Windsor Shoe company, Inc., Robert Stover of York, the parents of the community for showing an interest in the affair by sending their children, and mostly to the boys and girls who participated and offered their cooperation.

Plan Board of Review
A board of review will be held in conjunction with the regular meeting of Littlestown Boy Scout Troop No. 64, on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the basement of the Littlestown State bank building. Scouts are asked to come prepared for examinations and advancements. They are urged to work for advancements, tenderfoot, second class, first class and merit badges. A field meet will be held at Camp Conewago on Saturday and Sunday, September 8 and 9. Teams should make preparations for this meet by practicing on different events. Other fall activities being planned include an Appalachian Trail hike, a bus trip to Philadelphia, and the Gettysburg battlefield trip which was postponed in the spring will also be made, as well as having special programs in connection with the regular weekly meetings.

The class of 1936 of the Littlestown high school will hold a reunion for the members and their families on Sunday, August 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Kindig, near town. The affair will begin at 3 o'clock that afternoon, and guests are asked to come and bring along their picnic lunch and a card table, to use for serving. Further information concerning the reunion may be secured from Miss Grace Kindig, Carlisle, or from Mrs. Robert Feeser, Taneytown.

Lions Hold Outing
Over 100 persons were in attendance at the outing held for the members of the Littlestown Lions club and their families, on Thursday evening, at Christ Reformed church grove, near town. The Rev. and Mrs. G. Howard Koons and family were guests of the club at the affair. The invocation was given by the Rev. Mr. Koons. A fried chicken supper was served by the King's Daughters class of the church. The program included the showing of two strips of cartoons. A social hour was enjoyed by all. The Sight Conservation and Blind Committee consisting of Ralph L. Staley, Henry E. Waltman and Allen E. Weikert, was in charge of arrangements. The next regular meeting of the club will be held Thursday, September 6, at 7 p.m., at Bankert's restaurant, South Queen street. The Safety Committee, composed of Sterling J.

valis generally among our people regardless of occupation. A case in point has to do with our national Congress. Having had the opportunity to observe at close range, for many years, the modus operandi of our national law-making body, I have no hesitation in saying that nowhere else is the game, FOLLOW THE LEADER, so popular, or played so efficiently and consistently. In the lower House of Congress, with 435 members, the game is particularly popular, and the players unusually apt and skillful.

Only Few Leaders

A very small percentage of the membership assumes any sort of leadership, thus leaving the bulk of the members with nothing to do but follow the ready-made program handed to them. In other words, no initiative or creative ability is required on the part of the followers—no burning of midnight oil in an effort to either originate legislation, or even to study legislation already prepared. All the effort necessary is to buttonhole the leader or leaders to find out when and how to vote, and this difficult and arduous task is usually taken care of by the member's secretary, who also sees to it that he is on hand at the proper time to exercise his constitutional prerogative.

The famous T and T contingent of the House membership—THE IN ON TUESDAY AND OUT ON THURSDAY CLUB—are the game's most devoted and regular participants.

They represent constituencies in eastern states, not too far from Washington, thus enabling them to run back home over extended weekends for fence building and attention to private affairs. And all this at a cost to the American taxpayer of approximately $40,000 per member. Such public service is not only a sad commentary on initiative and creative ability, but its real seriousness lies in the fact that not all leadership, whether in law-making bodies or elsewhere, is to be followed without reservation and careful study.

Germans Followed Leader

In a larger sphere, Hitler was an outstanding example of the ruthless, unscrupulous, ambitious leader, followed by an educated, cultured people who, for the moment, lost all sense of values, refused to think things through, and willingly and fanatically played the game of our story to their everlasting sorrow and regret.

Another interesting phenomenon of leadership, and of the gullibility and inconsistency of the rank and file, is found in a movement begun under one leader or group of leaders, and then, in the midst of the agitation, another leader or leaders take over and completely reverse the procedure with the same followers participating. Such was the French Revolution. Elimination of the so-called French aristocrats and the exaltation of the ordinary French citizen was the end sought in the beginning; and the movement went merrily on its way until a Corsican General, of unparalleled military ability and leadership, arrested the mob and its leaders in the streets of Paris and made them obey. From that moment young Bonaparte was the leader, and he skillfully used the Revolution for his own purposes and glory. Its original objectives were lost sight of entirely through the will—the capricious and dominating will—of a single individual.

For many years one of the acknowledged goals of education in this country has been that of training for leadership. Yet we find, even among the educated, that individual initiative is uncommon and lacking. It is conceded that our citizens, generally, educated or not, would rather follow than lead; would rather imitate than create. Moreover, some of our leaders themselves are becoming stale, as it were, and are no longer a source of new ideas.

To illustrate, I have before me a report of a committee of educators who were commissioned to study a critical educational problem. The problem had been studied and answered many times before, but it was believed that a newer and better solution could be found. The committee spent a year studying the question, and with what result? You guessed it. All of the old answers were nicely assembled in the report, and properly documented as to their origin. These educators, rather than make an effort to originate new points of view, were perfectly satisfied to accept the views of others, more aggressive and creative.

Strange as it may seem, by submerging individuality, by merely following the leader, the average individual apparently acquires a type of security and comfort that he fails to obtain when he follows the dictates of his own ingenuity and imagination. The imitator is not required to accept responsibility; that can be placed on the shoulders of the originator, especially if there is a likelihood of unpleasant consequences.

Certainly it is cheaper in both Wisotzkey, John N. Sell and George A. Maitland, will be in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke E. Jacobs and sons, William, Thomas and Stephen, Hamburg, N. Y., are spending several days at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luke H. Jacobs and family, East King street, and with other relatives and friends in the community. The group is spending some time at the Jacobs' cottage at Laurel Dam.

time and energy to await the decisions of another.

Let us consider the fundamental premise of our democratic society, which is, that there shall be no ruling class other than the individuals who compose that society. To express it differently, the policies of our government should represent a composite of individual thought and judgment. Everyone is expected to participate in the processes of government. Yet, in 1940, only 59% of the country's eligible voters cast their votes for President. In 1944 the vote dropped to 56%, and in the 1948 election to 51%. If this trend continues, the next President of the United States doubtless will be elected by a minority of the country's eligible voters. The real seriousness and gravity of this situation becomes apparent when it is realized that tyrants and dictators can make headway only when a representative form of government neglects or fails to function.

To Enrich Mankind

A distinguished president of one of our colleges said recently to his graduating class:

"You are a simple aggregate of degree holders. Your distinguished characteristics are variety and difference, and your obligation as educated men and women is to maintain and develop this variety and difference for the profit and enrichment of mankind."

A lot of truth in that statement; it just about sums up in a few words the theme of my story and I shall now conclude with this thought: Why not have our schools teach their pupils that each boy and girl is as free as the nation's highest official to do what he or she can to change ideas, customs, practices, and laws, if need be, for the better? Schools enjoy the invaluable opportunity of teaching pupils to be self-reliant and creative; to do more than is required of them, and to try more experiments than have been tried before, which, incidentally, brings to mind Edison's never-give-up attitude.

Having tried, so the story goes, no less than 1,500 experiments to produce the incandescent light, he was admonished by his assistant to mark the effort off as a failure. "No indeed," said the great inventor, "I am making unexpected progress. I now know 1,500 ways that it can't be done, so I can discard them and concentrate on finding a new formula that will be a success." What could be more inspiring on the road to leadership than this persistent, creative attitude on the part of one of the nation's greatest inventors and benefactors!

Need Leadership Training

In short, in these troublous, perilous times, with the very fate of our national existence at stake, isn't it of the highest importance that we cultivate and encourage aptitudes for initiative, aggressiveness, and creative ability wherever found? Our educational institutions are becoming more and more alive to the importance of training for leadership; and, in the humble opinion of your correspondent, there is no logical reason why men with specialized training, but possessing latent creative aptitudes, shouldn't exercise such ability for the general welfare. — men who appreciate creative thinking and are able to do some of it themselves; men who understand the relationship of their business or profession to the general world order; men who are able to get along with their fellows; men who have a keen sense of right and wrong; men who have a highly developed curiosity. Yes; men who could and should lead instead of follow.

Macungie, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine called today on Pennsylvania farmers to increase crop production "to fortify ourselves should the ravages of war again strike."

"Pennsylvania should and can increase its agricultural production to a still higher degree to meet the challenges of need that are heard from every direction of the compass," the governor declared. Fine issued the plea in a prepared address at an agricultural field day program in this small Lehigh county community.

STEVE NELSON, TOP PENNA. RED, IN JAIL TODAY

Philadelphia, Aug. 18 (AP)—Steve Nelson, Pennsylvania's top Communist, is in jail today.

He was arrested yesterday in the Federal Bureau of Investigation's fourth roundup of Reds since the U.S. Supreme court upheld convictions of 11 party leaders last June. FBI agents seized Nelson in a mid-city apartment where he lived since June 27 when he left a hospital after treatment for injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

Set $100,000 Bail

Still on crutches, Nelson was taken before U.S. Commissioner Henry P. Carr who set bail at $100,000. Unable to raise bail, Nelson was whisked to Moyamensing prison to await a further hearing on Aug. 31.

Five other ranking Communists were arrested in the FBI roundup yesterday—three in Pittsburgh, one near Detroit and one in New York. The latest arrests brought to 46 the numbers of Communists seized by the FBI since June on charges of plotting to overthrow the government by force.

Nelson, 47, offered no resistance to arrest. He was seized on a copy of a complaint sworn by U.S. Attorney Edward C. Boyle before U.S. Commissioner Edward Snodgrass, Jr., at Pittsburgh, 35 minutes before his arrest.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas J. Curtin called Nelson the "organizer and No. 1 Communist" in the Pittsburgh area. Nelson is Communist party chairman for western Pennsylvania, the FBI said.

Other Charges

Technically he is on trial in Allegheny court at Pittsburgh on a charge of violating Pennsylvania's 1939 anti-secession law. The trial started in January and was suspended indefinitely after Nelson was injured here in May.

He was held in $100,000 bail when first arrested on the secession charge, but later this was reduced. Nelson also is under a contempt indictment for failing to answer questions of the House Un-American Activities committee in Washington.

The committee charged that Nelson set up a Red cell at the wartime University of California radiation laboratory and relayed atomic secrets to a Communist "scientist X." When questioned under oath, he refused to answer the committee's questions concerning these activities and was charged with contempt.

SEEK TO RETURN FOREIGN AID CUT

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—Administration leaders looked to the Senate today to restore at least part of a $1,011,250,000 cut the House made in President Truman's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill.

They were particularly hopeful of recapturing an unexpected last-minute slice of $350,000,000 in economic aid for Western Europe. That cut was pushed through by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats shortly before the bill passed last night by a vote of 260 to 101.

The House foreign affairs committee already had lopped $342,000,000 off funds for European economic help.

The additional cut was imposed by 149 Republicans and 37 Democrats over the opposition of 162 Democrats, 14 Republicans and one Independent. It was sponsored by Rep. Reece (R-Tenn.), former chairman of the Republican national committee.

The House left the European economic allotment at $985,000,000 instead of the $1,675,000,000 requested by President Truman.

There were no House-voted reductions in other funds recommended by the foreign affairs committee. This group had trimmed a total of $651,250,000 from Mr. Truman's requests for military and economic assistance for Europe, Greece, Turkey, Iran, the Near East, Africa, Asia, the Pacific area and American republics allied in resistance to communism.

Workman Dies In Attempted Rescue

Lancaster, Aug. 18 (AP)—A 27-year-old paper mill employee and a co-worker who tried to rescue him from a 15-foot pit were killed late yesterday at the Dean Mills, Inc., at nearby Eden.

Joseph Mason, plant superintendent, said Bruce Herner, of Lancaster, had gone into the pit to check a sump pump. When he was overcome by chemical fumes John L. Clare, 26, also of Lancaster, went down after him. Mason reported.

Both men were pronounced dead by Dr. Donald M. Strubbs of Lancaster General hospital when they were dragged from the pit.

Three other workers involved in the rescue attempts were made ill and were treated at the hospital. The official report on the cause of the two deaths was not immediately available.

CIVIL DEFENSE MEASURE CUT TO $65,255,000

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—The House appropriations committee Friday stripped all but $65,255,000 out of the $335,000,000 fund which President Truman requested for the civil defense administration.

In doing so, the committee tapped the agency for not developing a "realistic, well coordinated" civil defense plan which would guarantee "the people the maximum of protection for the money expended." When that is done, it said, congress will supply the money.

The committee acted as House leaders strove to speed passage of other government money bills after cracking a Senate-House deadlock over the measures.

The committee refused to approve any civil defense funds for bomb shelters and other protective facilities and cut $150,000,000 from the $200,000,000 requested for the purchase of medical supplies and equipment.

$260,000,000 For AEC

The civil defense budget was considered along with those of a score of other agencies in a supplemental appropriation bill providing $1,677,565,314—a total cut of $625,304,800 from President Truman's request.

The committee approved $260,000,000 of the $273,000,000 asked by the atomic energy commission to speed up construction of new facilities, to test weapons and to develop new type of reactors.

Another big allotment recommended was $790,216,000 for stockpiling strategic and critical material, for which the president had requested $800,000,000.

The commerce department was allotted $60,000,000 to continue work on construction of new fast cargo ships. The committee said contracts already have been let for 25 of the 37 new ships authorized by congress.

In refusing to approve civil defense funds to buy firefighting equipment or to pay for warden services, the committee said local governments should take care of such programs.

Launch Drive To Enforce Cattle Prices

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—The government Friday launched a nationwide drive to enforce cattle price ceilings and disclosed plans for sharply changing the ceilings themselves.

Michael V. DiSalle, head of the Office of Price Stabilization, said a large part of the OPS enforcement staff will concentrate on checking cattle sales prices. Immediate checks are to be made at slaughter plants to find out whether abnormally high purchases involve any over-ceiling sales.

DiSalle also disclosed that the beef slaughtering industry advisory committee has been called together here next Wednesday to "consider steps to be taken with respect to ceiling prices on cattle in view of the abolition of slaughter quotas."

The OPS is planning to propose then, today's statement from the agency indicated, the imposition of price ceilings on cattle sellers as well as purchasers, and ceilings on individual animals rather than on average monthly sales.

Harrisburg, Aug. 18 (AP)—Scranton's status as a second class "A" city is frozen until the 1960 census under a new state law signed by Gov. John S. Fine. The measure, introduced by Sen. Hugh J. McMenamin (D-Lackawanna) enables the city to retain its present form of government.

Scranton dropped below the 135,000 mark set by law for second class "A" cities in the 1950 census. Before the new law was passed it would have been forced to drop back to the classification of a third class city. This would have changed its form of government.

Harrisburg, Aug. 18 (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine will review Pennsylvania National Guard troops at two summer encampments on Sunday. Fine will inspect some 4,000 non-divisional troops at the nearby Indian town Gap Military reservation Sunday morning. In the afternoon he will fly to Reading for a full-scale review of the Pennsylvania Air National Guard units, now midway through their two-weeks of summer field training.

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—The House Friday passed over President Truman's veto a bill providing $120 monthly pensions to certain veterans disabled from causes not connected with their military service. It applies only to veterans who condition requires that they have the services of an attendant. The present pensions for these veterans range from $50 to $72 monthly.

COIN-TOSSING FINISH SEEN IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

By JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Hold on folks. Will Harridge's American league wheel is spinning toward another coin-tossing finish.

With Cleveland and New York straining in an exact first place tie, let's take a look at the schedule for the final six weeks of the season.

The edge, if any, tips slightly in favor of the Yankees who play 22 of their last 40 in Yankee Stadium. Cleveland divides its final 40 on a 20-20 basis and Boston, four games back, faces an uphill pull with only 16 at home and 24 away.

Chisox Win Pair

Nine big games between Boston and New York may give the Cleveland club the breathing space it needs. While the Red Sox and Yanks knock off one another in late September, the Tribe could slide home free.

Cleveland plays only 16 games with the other First Division clubs while New York has 19 and Boston 17 with the upper crust. Chicago, nine full games off the pace, still has seven dates with the Indians, their victims of yesterday.

The White Sox, now an outsider in the four-club race, stung Cleveland twice, 7-1 and 8-3. When the Yanks knocked off Philadelphia, 3-2, in a night game, Cleveland's lead had disappeared.

Brooklyn Cut To Nine

Boston hung in close by scoring three in the 12th to top Washington, 7-4. Detroit shaded St. Louis, 5-4.

Leo Durocher's New York Giants blew a little more life into their National league hopes by thumping the Phils, 8-5, to cut Brooklyn's lead to nine games. The Dodgers split a pair in Boston, winning the opener, 3-1 for Carl Erskine but losing to Johnny Sain in the second, 4-3.

Stan Musial's 28th homer in the ninth gave St. Louis a 2-1 nod over Cincinnati in a duel between Max Lanier and Herm Wehmeier. Pittsburgh's Mel Queen set down Chicago with three hits, 8-3.

Yankees Luck Holds

White Sox attendance went over the 1,000,000 mark for the first time as they ruined Bobby Feller's bid for win No. 20 and whipped Bob Chakales in the second game. Billy Pierce breezed home with a five-hitter against Feller with the help of homers by Al Zarilla and Ray Coleman. Jim Busby homered in the Emmitsburg—Rev. and Mrs. Philip Bower and their guest, Mrs. Charles Hershey, visited with Rev. and Mrs. William Wood and family who are vacationing at their farm home near McKnightstown. Rev. Dr. Wood, a former football coach at Gettysburg college, is now pastor at Sailor Snug Harbor, Staten Island, N. Y.

Emmitsburg

A Baumgardner family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Baumgardner, R. 2. About 20 attended.

The office of Dr. James H. Allison will be closed from August 19 to September 2, while Dr. Allison and family are vacationing.

The publicity committee for Old Home Week acknowledges with regret an error in omitting the name of the Emmitsburg Homemakers club from the list of those organizations sponsoring and cooperating with the Old Home Week celebration. The women of this Emmitsburg club are carrying a large responsibility in the entire celebration.

The VFW block party for the benefit of the ambulance fund opened Friday evening on DePaul street in full swing and will be continued until midnight tonight.

The public schools of Emmitsburg will open on Wednesday, September 5, according to an announcement made by Superintendent of Public Schools of Frederick county Eugene W. Pruitt. Tuesday, September 4, will be introductory day for parents and children entering the school for the first time. All children second, won by reliever Luis Aloma. Overmire's first complete game in a Yankee uniform came at an opportune moment with Casey Stengel hard up for pitchers Stubby had some anxious moments in the ninth. He got Eddie Joost on a long fly with two men on for the final out to beat Bob Hooper.

TAP COPPER SUPPLY

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—The nation's emergency stockpile of copper is being tapped for 25,000 tons of the scarce metal to meet defense production needs. Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson announced the move Friday. He said President Truman had authorized loans of the strategic metal from the stockpile to overcome defense industries' current copper shortage.
